

ROBERT ELMS

Robert has been in the Army for almost 40 years. He has served as a Combat Engineer, Construction Supervisor, Education Officer and Learning Development Advisor. Deploying to the Falkland Islands, Belize, Kenya, the USA, the Middle East, The Balkans, Iraq and Northern Ireland. As an Educator he commanded Army Education Centres in the UK and Germany, was a Teaching Fellow with the University of Southampton, Directing Staff at the Defence Academy and developed training for those in ground-based Combat and Combat Support roles. Retiring from regular service in 2022 he had a brief spell as a management consultant before joining HQ Royal School of Military Engineering as a reserve officer.

He lives in Gillingham and is a Parent Governor for Brompton Academy. He enjoys skiing, mountaineering, apiculture, keeps a cabin in northern Sweden and runs a small electrical installation business. His youngest daughter is a Dukie.