

Andrew Nunn

Andrew is a graduate of Durham University. Prior to his appointment as Head of Religious Studies in 1986, he taught both in the State and Independent sectors as well as teaching for several years in Bermuda. He served as the School's first elected teacher governor 2010-2012 and has been an appointed Trustee since 2017.

During his tenure at DOYRMS he served as Housemaster of Wolfe House (1988-1996), after which he initiated and developed the School's training programme for senior student leaders which was recognised as 'Outstanding' by Ofsted. Upon his retirement from full-time teaching in 2012 he received the Lord Lieutenant's Award for meritorious service for work with the CCF and then subsequently the Commander Home Command's Commendation in 2019 after 34 years of CCF service.

Following retirement, Andrew continues to serve as a Trustee on The Dukies' Foundation. In 2015 he took on the role of Hon. Secretary of The British Torch of Remembrance which the School has managed since 2016. In 2018 he began the restoration of the School's unique Archive which now has an established and developing Archive Centre.

Beyond the school gates, Andrew has had experience as a governor of a local Primary school and a secondary Special school. He was Deputy Director of The National Senior Prefects' conference 2006-2018, sponsored by The Society of Heads and held here 2008-2010. His main hobby has always been singing and for many years, wherever he has worked he has sung for local and regional choral societies and opera groups as a baritone soloist. (Sadly, the bellows are now not quite what they were!)

Andrew lives locally and is married with one daughter.
